Dunkirk 2013: Regional Capital of Culture

2013... will be a key moment in the blossoming of a town resolutely acting to seize its future: Dunkirk has left a phase of recovery and restoration behind to enter boldly into the 21st century. Turning steadfastly to the future, modernity and innovation, it has taken its destiny into its own hands and reaffirmed its character.

As the Regional Capital of Culture, Dunkirk will have the opportunity to introduce you to the new facets of this area's personality.

FROM 30 MAY
TO 2 JUNE
2013

MARITIME FESTIVAL

Dunkirk, one of France's main coastal cities and an important European port, will welcome a fleet of French ships and vessels along its Pier 1 and Quay of Honour, in collaboration with the 6th annual Armada of Rouen and with the approval of the International Sail Training Association. A series of additional events will accompany the festival: an exhibit at the Port Museum (from the collections of the European Maritime Museums), the World Sea Film Festival, concerts, and more.

BBOYMONDE: WORLD HIP-HOP DANCE CHAMPIONSHIP

> 9 and 10 November 2013: at the Kursaal of Dunkirk

JUNE

INSTRUMENTARIUM BIG BRASS BAND

A grand musical show that will bring together hundreds of students from local primary schools, the Dunkirk Music Conservatory and other music schools of greater Dunkirk. The best local wind ensembles, as well as those of Kent and West Flanders, will also participate.

APRIL TO DECEMBER
2013

NOCTURNAL FICTION ALFRESCO

An eclectic and popular artistic firework display will accent and highlight the various events of the Dunkirk 2013 Regional Capital of Culture celebration.

EXHIBITS

> April to December 2013:
Exhibits at the LAAC and Fine Arts
Museum,

> June to September 2013: Inauguration
of the FRAC:
Presentation of the collections in the new
"Lacaton-Vassal" building and of monumental works in the AP2 Hall

> October to December 2013: Great Contemporary

> 6 or 7 July 2013:
Grand Show in the streets of Dunkirk, the heart of the greater Dunkirk area

A grand parade and show performed by hundreds of amateurs and dozens of regional and international professional performers.

AND JULY
2013

The program of the Regional Capital of Culture celebration, beyond these confirmed events, shall be completed depending on the results of calls for proposals and shall be punctuated by various inaugurations.

Welcome

Welcome to Dunkerque and French Flanders, a seaside destination offering superb beaches, sand dunes, marinas and protected natural reserves.

We combine urban attractions with unspoiled countryside where the French way of life meets traditional Flemish culture. A stone's throw from the famous Dunkerque beaches you will find picturesque villages and walled towns, where time seems to have stood still. From windmills to belfries, from the frenzy of the carnival to spectacular fireworks displays, delicious local food and great shopping facilities to fascinating visitor attractions... there's always a good reason to come and visit us. Not to mention a very warm welcome, typical of Northern France.

On the following pages you'll find lots of good reasons to stop off in Dunkerque and French Flanders, but we're sure you'll find plenty more!

With our very best wishes for a pleasant stay in Dunkerque.

Simon Calder,
travel journalist

“One of the joys of travel is to discover places that you had previously overlooked. Over the years I have travelled via Dover and Dunkerque into Europe on many occasions.

But only in the past few months have I had the good sense – and good fortune – to devote time to the town and its surroundings. The result is a revelation: I feel I have discovered a hidden corner of France, and can't wait to reveal the secret. The magic ABC of art, beaches and cuisine are in ample supply in Dunkerque, along with a rich history and a beautiful hinterland – not to mention plenty of retail opportunities. I promise you a rewarding visit.”

Dunkerque and its environs

The town centre of Dunkerque is 18km (11 miles) east of the ferry terminal (Port Rapide), with easy access to Dunkerque on the RN1 or the toll-free autoroute, the A16.

The first town west of the port is Gravelines, with its well-preserved fortifications. The shore to the north curves east to the Belgian border, an unbroken arc of beautiful beach colonised by surfers, kite flyers and families.

Inland, it takes little time to shrug off the suburbs and find yourself in French Flanders: a land of gentle scenery speckled with church spires and pretty villages.

Dunkerque with DFDS Seaways

One of the largest ferry operators in Europe, DFDS Seaways has a reputation for offering high quality vessels and a superb onboard experience. The company has been operating between Dover and Dunkerque since it took over norfolkline.com in 2010, and is currently the fastest growing operator on the English Channel.

DFDS Seaways sails between Dover and Dunkerque up to 24 times daily. Its fleet of three purpose-built ferries offer identical, state of the art facilities including a restaurant, spacious lounges, restaurants, bars and an onboard shop. The ferries are light and spacious, and offer award-winning standards of service.

No other operator sails to Dunkerque, so the port is much less congested than Calais. The town centre is a short drive away, and there is fast, easy access from the port onto the French motorway network.

Glorious beaches

Bray-Dunes, Malo-les-Bains, Petit Fort Philippe... The area around Dunkerque boasts miles of sweeping sandy beaches. Nothing beats sitting on a shady restaurant terrace, overlooking the sea, with plate of local moules-frites accompanied by an ice-cold beer or a glass of chilled white wine.

While the children play on the beach, you can sit back and enjoy the show. One of longest cross-border beaches of Europe is a paradise for kite-surfers, sand-surfers and wind-surfers. It's difficult to imagine that this beach was the scene of one of the greatest military evacuations in all military history: Operation Dynamo in 1940 (see px).

And what better way to walk off your lunch than with a stroll along the spectacular unspoiled dunes between Dunkerque and the Belgian border?

Water sports galore

Several water sports centres specialise in an array of open-air activities: sailing, sand yachting, canoeing, fun boat, catamaran, fishing, kite-flying, mountain biking, rowing, kitesurfing: all disciplines related to the sea and the beach are on offer!

Land yachting is an exciting combination of sailing and go-kart racing (no sailing skills required!). The basics can be mastered in 15 minutes and beginners can book an introductory lesson on the beaches of Gravelines and Dunkerque, at a fraction of the price you'd pay at home.

Or why not discover sailing with a crew on a race yacht? There are plenty of places to cast off your moorings for a yachting trip from Dunkerque or Gravelines.

Kitesurfing is another popular sport. The huge stretches of beach and the quality of the dominant winds offer great conditions to learn this spectacular sport in a safe environment, and there are a number of good kite surfing schools here.

Great shopping and gourmet food

Dunkerque offers no less than 600 town-centre shops including all your favourite brands : H&M, Mango, Kookai, Zara... as well as French cosmetics and perfume classics such as Sephora and Marionnaud.

Shopping here is easy, with over 4,500 car park spaces (of which 1000 are free) right next to the Centre Marine and the Pole Marine, the town's two covered shopping malls. And don't forget Dunkerque's two supermarkets: Monoprix & Leclerc.

© Samuel Dhote

For more local flavour, try 'les Aubettes' on Place du Minck. A stone's throw from the town centre, you'll find fish stalls here selling the catch of the day. And if you'd like a souvenir to take home, the belfry shop has lots of budget gifts on offer like the unique "Dunk... de toi" local perfume.

© OT Dunkerque

"While I, like many men, possess only a faint grasp on the concept of shopping, I must say Dunkerque has several retail dimensions. Many visitors will be satisfied with the trio of out-of-town hypermarkets that offer delicious bargains. Those of us who like the rustic things in life will make sure to be in the centre of Dunkerque on Wednesday or Saturday, when the outdoor market takes over.

People who seek out specialist shops should be delighted with the 'Crèmerie La Ferme' at 22 rue Poincare – you smell the ripe and wonderful cheeses before you see the shop – and the confectioner named after the local hero, 'Aux doigts de Jean Bart' at 6 rue du Sud, where the sweetest tooth can be satisfied.

© Imagis.com

You can also enjoy a couple of superb retail set-pieces. Make your way to Dunkerque on Ascension Day or to Gravelines on the last Sunday of July, and you can witness the amazing 'Brochantes' – the flea markets that take over the town centre and resemble vast car-boot sales."

Simon Calder, travel journalist.

Nearby, the town of Bourbourg is renowned for its chocolate specialities: the 'cossette' of Bourbourg and the cobblestones of St Jean Baptiste while in Gravelines you can taste the local beer 'la Gravelinoise' which has a hint of coriander.

Grand-Fort-Philippe is a former fishing port where you can find traditional-style smoked fish, or why not visit Craywick with its quaint Flemish tavern?

Malo-les-Bains, the Dunkerque seaside resort, has a lively centre. On Tuesday morning, the market on Place Turenne is a good starting point for a stroll to the beach promenade to get some fresh air or enjoy a meal in one of the many restaurants. Don't miss the traditional open market that takes place on Sunday mornings in centre of Rosendael.

For something a little different, why not taste flax while you are here? Traditionally the flax plant is cultivated for the manufacture of cloth but in this region it's also used in food. In the Country of Linen, around the village of Hondskoote, local bakers and butchers use flax kernels in their food production. Flax is also rich in Omega 3 fatty acids. At least eight restaurants in the style and ambience of Flemish inns cater for all tastes including many Flemish speciality dishes.

Dunkerque and the Gravelines area offer many opportunities to taste the local gastronomy, which is a combination of traditional Flemish cooking and excellent seafood. You will find superb seafood platters and freshly caught 'fish of the day', alongside traditional waterzoi and potje vleesch, and of course the famous Dunkerque mussels, cooked in a home-made marinière sauce.

© Samuel Dhote

From a quick snack to a four-course gourmet extravaganza, one thing is sure: the area's huge range of restaurants represents excellent value for money!

War memories

Dunkerque is a town steeped in history, despite being badly damaged during the battles of 1940. One of the most memorable events in wartime history was played out on the beaches of Dunkerque. From 26 May to 4 June 1940, the overstretched British Expeditionary Force and part of the French 1st Army faced annihilation in the face of a rapid German advance.

A corridor for the retreating troops was kept open to the sea at Dunkerque, where a makeshift fleet of around 700 vessels shuttled over 300,000 soldiers back to Britain. Thousands died during 'Operation Dynamo' but thanks to the heroism of the rescuers and the evacuees, the end result was the conservation of a much-needed fighting force that helped to turn the war.

Mémorial du Souvenir War Museum

The museum is located in the fortifications that were built in 1874 to reinforce France's coastal defence. Bastion 32 served as the headquarters for the French and Allied forces during the Battle of Dunkerque and Operation Dynamo.

The Mémorial du Souvenir tells the incredible story of the battle and of the evacuation of more than 338,000 allied soldiers from the 'Pocket of Dunkerque' with a rich exhibition of maps, pictures and both allied and German military material. Scale models of the sites of the operation, uniforms and weapons complete the collection. A 15-minute film using dramatic period footage gives an excellent account of the events of May-June 1940.

Princess Elizabeth Paddle Steamer

Built in Britain in 1926-1927, this paddle steamer was first used as an excursion steamer and ferry between Southampton and the Isle of Wight. At the outset of World War II she was converted into a minesweeper and, a year later, she took part in Operation Dynamo. Princess Elizabeth made four trips from Dover to Dunkerque to rescue 1673 men in total, among which were 500 French soldiers. After the war, she returned to her civilian occupation and in 1965 she was converted into a floating casino and later into a restaurant. In 1999, Princess Elizabeth returned to Dunkerque.

The British Memorial

Erected in 1957, this memorial pays homage to the 4528 soldiers of the British ground forces and to six men of the Indian army, who were enlisted in 110 different units and who lost their lives during May-June 1940. The memory of those soldiers, all missed in action, is carved for eternity in Portland stone. Next to the memorial is a cemetery where 810 soldiers are buried. Most were killed during the defence of the Dunkerque perimeter in 1940.

Route de Furnes - Dunkerque

The Fort des Dunes

Built in 1878-1880 near Leffrinckoucke, this fort was key to the defence strategy of Dunkerque and its port at the end of the 19th century. However due to the events that took place here during the Second World War the fort has become an important site for the memory of those lost in conflict. About a hundred soldiers were killed here during Operation Dynamo and eight members of the local resistance were executed here in September 1944. Nowadays, the fort no longer has a military function. It can be visited on Saturday afternoons in July and August.

Maritime History

The name Dunkerque is Flemish, and means simply ‘the church on the dunes’. But since its foundation in the 19th century, the port’s geographic location – at the point where the North Sea narrows to the Strait of Dover – has made Dunkerque a strategic prize. It was squabbled over by the British, Dutch and Spanish, but it has remained resolutely French since the late 17th century.

© Musée Portuaire

This was the time that the local hero, Jean Bart, made his name as a ‘privateer’. Little more than state-sponsored pirates, privateers were given free rein to attack enemy ships. Monsieur Bart was a highly successful privateer, particularly in capturing Dutch cargo ships laden with food, and today his name is commemorated everywhere. Imagine a cross between Sir Francis Drake and Robin Hood, and you come close to the admiration felt for him!

Dunkerque Port Museum

Housed in a former 19th century tobacco warehouse on the Quai de la Citadelle, the collections offer a fascinating insight into the world of a large port, from both a historical and contemporary perspective.

Three ships are moored opposite the museum: the majestic schooner Duchesse Anne, the lightship Sandettie (both listed as historic monuments) and the Guilde barge. All add to the quayside museum visit, offering visitors the chance to really immerse themselves in the lives of sailors and boatmen.

Golf de Dunkerque Grand Littoral

Dunkerque's recently re-landscaped 27-hole golf course is a must for any golfer. Nine highly original new holes have been added, inspired by the design of Dunkerque's 17th century military fortifications. Driving off artillery towers and bastions and navigating moats and lakes all make for an unforgettable golfing experience.

Just 15 km from the ferry terminal and 5 km from the town centre, the course also boasts spectacular views of the Flemish countryside including the pretty fortified town of Bergues.
